MARRIED IN HASTE

A Race With Time That Was Won by Cupid

Tuesday night before Lent, about 10 o'clock, a man and woman drove up in front of the Irving Hotel at Ellendale in great haste. The gentleman at once made inquiry for Father O'Callaghan and told the landlord that he must find the priest at once as he was here to get married. The landlord dispatched a messenger with the gentleman for the home of the priest, while the lady went upstairs to make her toilet. The bridegroom-to-be arrived about 11 o'clock with the priest, and the lady came into the parlor nicely gowned for the ceremony...but it was discovered that in order to make things right, a marriage license was necessary. The landlord asked that arrangements be postponed till morning, but no siree, tomorrow was Lent, the lady was a strict religious woman and they must be married that night.

Accordingly they all set out for the home of Judge Flemington to find a license, the lady facing the biting cold with light slippers on her feet, and clad in her light wedding gown, with but a wrap around her shoulders. The license was procured and the couple were joined in matrimony at the home of Father O'Callagan before the clock struck 12, and all was well. Afterwards they returned to the hotel.

The parties were from Cogswell and registered as A. M. Cook and Miss M. C. Farley. Both were pretty well advanced in years. Their run across the country by team was occasioned by change in time table of the Great Northern. They left home in time to take the train at Brockland, but the change which went into effect on Monday made them two hours late. Mr. Cook was prominent in Sargent County politics in early days, and at one time represented this district in the territorial legislature.

VERY STRANGE CASE

Nick Fox of Vernon Commits Suicide and His Brother, Pete, Goes Craxy....

A tragedy occurred just south of Vernon last week with an air of mystery about it that will probably never be explained.

Nicholas and Peter Fox were two well-to-do bachelor brothers of middle age who lived alone about four miles southeast of Vernon. They were in comfortable circumstances...had a good farm, were out of debt and had a couple of thousand dollars of ready money. They were quiet and industrious Scandinavians and highly thought of in the vicinity.

Last Thursday Pete appeared at the Jones and Dales store at Vernon and gave Mr. Dales $1750 to deposit for his account in one of the Hankinson banks. He returned again, and his actions were so strange as to raise a doubt in Mr. Dales' mind as to his sanity. He remained in town and later in the day became violent and was taken to Sisseton and committed to the South Dakota asylum.

Friday morning a neighbor went over to the Fox place and on the floor of a blacksmith shop on the premises found the dead body of Nick, he having committed suicide by blowing his head off with a shotgun. The body lay on its back with the gun beside it, and a short stick had evidently been used to discharge the piece after placing the muzzle under his chin.

So far as known neither brother knew of the other's misfortune and that the two should thus be removed from the community in such a tragic manner is one of those strange visitations of providence that is beyond the ken of mortal comprehension. The only known relatives live at Elbow Lake, MN., and they were notified of the tragedy and took charge of the remains.

SECOND TRAGEDY

Involving Peter Fox of Near Vernon

The tragic suicide of Nick Fox near Vernon last April and the sudden insanity of his brother Peter is fresh in the minds of most of our readers. The following special from Elbow Lake, involving Peter and other members of the family will therefore be of local interest:

The bloodiest deed ever committed in Grant County, took place on a farm five miles north of town. John Fox killed his mother, brother and himself. No one witnessed the tragedy.

John entered the house and told the hired girl that he wanted to shoot a skunk, and left with a gun. The girl followed him to look after the chickens and shortly after she heard two shots, yells and groans. Coming up John met her and ordered her to leave if she not want to get hurt and she fled.

From the appearance his brother Peter stood against a hitching post. John probably was in a granary six rods away and fired the shot. The charge entered Peter's head, face and breast, felling him. Peter yelled after he was shot and while he was lying on the ground John fired a revolver into the back of his head, the bullet lodging over the right eye.

The shooting attracted his aged mother, who apparently was supporting herself on a bed post peering out of the window when John entered, and placed the revolver against the back of her head and fired, the bullet coming out near the eye. Death was instantaneous.

A neighbor, John Olson, heard the shooting and started to investigate. He was met at the fence by John with a revolver and told to go if he did not want to get killed too. He hurried to town. John then put the muzzle to his ear and fired. He died instantly. A note on the back of a letter found in John's pocket book reads:

"No one who is not suffering like I am can tell how it feels. No pen can describe it, so do not care for me. If I do not do it I will have to suffer a thousand deaths and still have to die.John Fox."

Peter was insane, and another brother Nicholas committed suicide on April 12th at Sisseton. SD., by blowing off the top of his head with a shotgun. The father is sick and in Minneapolis for treatment. The father and mother are both over seventy.

L. J. Thompson, the man killed by a Great Northern train at Lidgerwood last Friday, was a brother of Mrs. Glassel formerly of this place and was about 50 years old. The remains were taken to Fairmount for interment.

FATAL ACCIDENT

15 Year Old Boy Shoots Himself at Vernon, Dying Instantly

A shooting accident that resulted in the death of Vincent Kaiser, the 15 year old son of Peter Kaiser, occurred at Vernon last Sunday afternoon. Young Kaiser, in company with another boy, had been hunting and drove into Vernon about 5 o'clock with a two wheeled cart drawn by a mule. The bottom of the cart was made of slats and between two of these the gun slipped and was discharged, the charge striking young Kaiser in the stomach, killing him instantly. The remains were taken to his home three miles east of Vernon where the funeral was held Tuesday afternoon, the remains being interred in the cemetery just east of Vernon.

Deceased was a particularly bright boy and was the idol of his parents who are almost crazed with grief. The mother is a sister of J. P. and Frank Glasner and the family is well known here.

The body of an unknown man was found lying in a field twenty miles south of here, in Roberts County, Sunday. The body was evidently that of an insane man who sought to end his life by walking into a burning straw pile. When found the clothing was entirely burned away and the body below the head and shoulders was literally roasted and some of the members were burned off. There is no clue as to the identity of the man further than that furnished by a charred letter taken from a remnant of the clothing. It was almost unintelligible but as nearly as could be made out was written by Thomas A. Baxter, 249 Jefferson Ave., Grand Rapids Michigan. From the postmark on the wrapper it appears that the letter was received at Minneapolis and was in reference to some religious tracts that had been sent to Webster, SD. Within the letter was found the name of J. Wright, but whether this was the name of the dead man is not known. The ground for the belief that the man was crazy is from the fact that he was seen by neighbors on the night of death bare-footed and was but scantily clad. He refused to say anything further than "I am looking for God." His hair was raven black, tinged with gray and hung down his back fully eighteen inches. The body was taken possession of by the Roberts County authorities and held for identification.

IN MEMORIAM

OUR MOTHER

Sargent County Independent, Nov. 27th.....Mrs. W. C. Forman, one of the earliest settlers of this county, died last Monday morning at the home of her son at Hankinson, ND. She was at Hankinson for hospital treatment. Her ailment, an affection of the heart, baffled all treatment, and despite the constant care and attention of loving hands, she gradually sank to her final rest. She had lived the life of a devoted christian and died with the assurance of eternal happiness.

The funeral took place yesterday from the Congregational Church, of which she was a member, Rev. Vaugh officiating, assisted by Rev. Bridewell of the M. E. Church. The attendance was very large. "Aunt Debbie," as deceased was tenderly termed by the public, was a friend to everyone, and all her acquaintances seemed to have a strong friendship for her. She was an elder sister of the editor of the Independent, and he is indebted to her sisterly counsel and care, dating from his early childhood, for most of what may be his best qualities. Her life influence has been for good. Though dead, she still lives through the ennobling example of her character, her uniform kindness and generosity.

Mrs. Theo. Lutz of Chicago, and Mrs. S. M. Lockerby of Valley City, sisters, were present at the last sad rites. Thos. B. Hurly of Bowbells, another brother, owing to the delay in a telegram, failed to reach here in time. Deceased leaves a husband and two children...W. C. Forman, Jr., editor of the Hankinson News, and little Clara Forman of this place. Their attachment to her was unusually strong and was fully reciprocated. Their great grief like that of all her relatives, can better be imagined than described. Interment was in the Forman Cemetery.

Deceased was born in Tralee, Ireland, in 1848, and emigrated to this country with her family when a child.

BURNED to DEATH!

Two Lives Lost Twelve Miles South west of Town Tuesday Night by the Fiery Demon.

CHRIS HEHNKE and PAUL ZIEBRATH VICTIMS.

Were Returning Home from Town and Sought Refuge from Storm in an Abandoned Shanty Former Leaves Wife and Five Children, Ziebrath a Single Man....Fire Caused by Their Own Carelessness.....

Chris Henke and Paul Ziebrath lost their lives by the burning of a building thirteen miles southwest of here during Tuesday night's blizzard.

Henke, who is a well-to-do farmer, came to town Tuesday accompanied by Paul and Max Ziebrath, sons of Julius Ziebrath, a neighboring farmer. They spent the afternoon in town, leaving about dusk for home. Max Ziebrath, instead of returning with the others, accompanied Martin Fellbaum, another neighbor's boy. Both rigs were bob-sleighs, Henke's sleigh being loaded with lignite coal. A team of gray horses (which Henke had purchased of John Green while in town) were tied behind his sleigh. Both rigs left town at about the same time and stayed together until they reached the corner of Frank Wolf's farm, where they parted, Fellbaum and his companion driving from there a short distance west where they stopped at Louia Brendle's home for the night on account of the blizzard which made it difficult to keep to the road. Henke and the older Ziebrath boy went on, however, but appear to have become bewildered shortly after. The rear bob of their sleigh came off just west of Louis Lund's place and they went on without it, the sleigh-box dragging on the ground. The coal was scattered along the ground from this point and in this way their subsequent movements were traced. They were off the road the remainder of the time, but kept in the right general direction. They seem to have had more trouble with their rig, as the king-bolt was missing and the whiffle trees had been made fast with a piece of rope. They drove past Dan Sweeney's place and south a mile to a shack on the extreme southwest corner of the SW. $\frac{1}{4}$ section 24 in Elma Twp., the building being on the main traveled road and less than three rods from the South Dakota state line. The building stood in a hollow and had not been occupied for about six months. It was a 14 x 16 structure, one story, built of logs stood on end and chinked up with mortar. A lean-to stable of the same size was attached to the south side of the building. The door was padlocked and the building contained only a stove without a stove-pipe, a straw tick in the northwest corner and a few empty boxes. The building was less than a quarter of a mile from Henke's home and just across the road from his pasture fence. The men appear to have unhitched their team, standing them in the stable, but left the gray team outside. They then forced open the padlocked door and probably started a fire in the stove. They had a keg of beer and some other liquor with them but were not intoxicated when they left town, and the younger Ziebrath says they were all right when he last saw them at Wolf's corner. Just what happened after this will never be known and is only a matter of conjecture.

The nearest dwelling house to the building is that of A. O. Johnson who runs a small store about an eighth of a mile west. His wife noticed a bright light reflecting on their windows about 11:45 that night and on opening the door they saw that the vacant building was on fire. The night was so stormy that Mr. Johnson did not investigate further. Other neighbors saw the fire, including the wife of Henke, but made no investigation until the morning. Just before noon of the following day, Dan Sweeney, Peter J. Hetland, A. O. Johnson and others visited the scene of the fire and were horrified to see in the ruins the charred remains of human beings. They thought it best to make no further investigation of the ruins until the arrival of the coroner. The horses were found on the prairie, the gray team unburt but the others badly singed and with the harness partly burned off. Inquiries in the neighborhood revealed the fact that Henke had not arrived home and on driving to town they found that Paul Ziebrath had left here with him and opinion was divided as to whether Max Ziebrath had been in the rig or accompanied Fellbaum. M. A. Wipperman phoned to Coroner Kaufman at Wahpeton stating the facts as far as known, but the coroner was unable to come and authorized Mr. Wipperman to secure a justice and hold an inquest. Judge Herbert was empowered as Acting Coroner and a party of five (J. B. Herbert, M. A. Wipperman, A. J. Barker, Herman Wirth and W. C. F. man, Jr.,) left town yesterday (Christmas) morning for the scene of the fire, taking with them one casket as it was not known positively whether more than one life had been lost. The party reached the scene at 1:30 and soon several farmers from the vicinity were on the spot. The charred body in sight was turned over but at first could not be identified. The limbs were missing, little remaining but the head and charred trunk. After shoveling in the snow a few moments the remains of another man were revealed. This body was even more badly burned than the other. The limbs were almost entirely missing and only the trunk and a small piece of skull were found. Two watches, a knife, a pair of pliers and other trinkets were found, being sufficient to identify the first body as that of Paul Ziebrath and the other that of Chris Henke. The latter had apparently been lying on the tick in the corner and was probably overcome by heat and smoke without making an effort to escape. Ziebrath had started for the door and when about four feet from it was overcome and fell forward on his face. One watch had stopped at 11:05 and the other at 12:45, showing about the hour of the fire and confirming the testimony of the neighbors on this point. The party then proceeded to Johnson's store, a team sent to the Ziebrath home, some three miles further west, to look for the other Ziebrath boy, who up to this time had not been accounted for. He was found and with his father brought to Johnson's. They completed the identification of the watches and other articles found on the bodies.

Acting Coroner Herbert had empaneled a jury consisting of M. A. Wipperman, W. C. Forman Jr., and Dan Sweeney, and the following verdict was returned:

State of North Dakota,

County of Richland,

An inquest held in Elma Township, County and state aforesaid, on the 25th day of December, A. D., 1902, before J. B. Herbert, Acting Coroner of said County, upon the bodies of Paul Ziebrath and Chris Henke there lying dead, by the jurors whose names are hereto subscribed. The said jurors upon their oaths do say, that said Paul Ziebrath and Chris Henke came to their death as the result of a fire started by their own hands in a vacant building on the southwest corner of the S. W. $\frac{1}{4}$ 24-129-51 at or about midnight of Dec. 23, 1902.

M. A. Wipperman
W. C. Forman, Jr.
Daniel Sweeney.

Chris Henke was 38 years of age and had a family of five children, the oldest a girl of 12 and the youngest an infant in arms. He lived just across the line in South Dakota, had a quarter of land with good buildings and was in very good circumstances. The wife is prostrated with grief at the tragic fate which befell her husband almost at his own door, and has the sympathy of all.

Henke carried no life insurance he being strongly opposed to fraternal societies of all kinds.

Paul Ziebrath was 26 years old and single, making his home with his father and younger brother. He was at one time a member of the Woodmen of the World but had allowed his insurance to lapse.

The funeral of the two will be held Sunday and the remains will be interred in the cemetery about four miles west of the Henke farm.

Oscar Farbey, an 18 year old boy, committed suicide by hanging, Monday afternoon, at the home of his uncle Charles Erickson, six miles west and two miles south of Vernon, where he had been working as a farm hand.

Erickson drove to Hankinson Monday, leaving young Farbey alone in the house, and on arriving home at 4 o'clock the same afternoon found the boy hanging from a rope tied to a cross beam of the second story of the building. He had stood on a sack of flax and jumped off with the rope around his neck. The rope was too long for the purpose and the knees were drawn up to keep them off the floor while he slowly strangled to death. He had apparently been hanging for several hours when found.

No cause is known for his self destruction, and the general opinion is that the boy was mentally unbalanced as he had been acting queerly of late.

Besides the uncle with whom he was living, he has an older brother working in the same neighborhood. The funeral was held yesterday.

The following special from SCIPES, INDIANA, should impress upon the public the importance of thoroughly disinfecting premises where smallpox patients have been confined:

"Thirty nine years ago the father of Miss Minnie Peterson died of small pox. Miss Peterson died of small pox yesterday, having taken the disease just two weeks ago, after she opened an old trunk containing her father's clothes, for the first time since his death. This is the longest period on record where germs of smallpox have continued deadly. Medical experts have taken great interest in the case and the state health board is preparing a scientific statement."

FELL FROM SOO TRAIN

John Baker of Carrington Killed Near Mantador Tuesday Night

SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN INTOXICATED

Deceased Was Single and the Owner of Considerable Property

John Baker, proprietor of a blind pig at Carrington, ND., was instantly killed by falling from train 106 between Moselle and Mantador at 10:30 PM Tuesday night. He is supposed to have been intoxicated. He was uninjured by the train but his neck was broken by the fall

The body was found Wednesday morning by the Soo section crew from Wyndmere and was brought here on a freight which arrived at 11:30. Letters and papers revealed his identity and the authorities at Carrington were notified by wire of the accident. Deceased was a K. P. and three members of the Carrington lodge....W. M. Moore, J. E. Galehouse, Jr., and J. A. Roberton....arrived this morning. They knew that he left Carrington with over $200 in cash and were inclined to think that he had been robbed and murdered, as he left for Minneapolis with three notorious tin horn gamblers as companions. This belief was strengthened when they learned on arriving here that only $6.24 had been found on the body. However, a more thorough search by Coroner Kaufman this morning brought to light $180 in currency from one of his shoes and $25 concealed elsewhere on the body. This did away with the murder theory, and they are now convinced that it was an accident.

Deceased was a Norwegian by birth and his only relative in this country is a brother living in Seattle. He also has a sister in Norway. He was a single man, 36 years old, of sandy complexion, heavy set, and weighed about 200 pounds. He was well-to-do financially, one of his friends rating him at $5,000, several hundred of which is on deposit in one of the Carrington banks.

Coroner Kaufman and Sheriff Moody arrived this morning and an inquest is being held this afternoon. The jury consists of M. A. Wipperman, Chas. Hein and F. A. Russell. The witnesses are Hoovey, a traveling man who was on the train Tuesday night; the Soo agent and section foreman and Matt Jost, who took charge of the body at Mantador, and local parties who were present when the body was taken from the train here.

The remains will be shipped to Carrington for burial on this afternoon's train.

MURDER MOST FOUL

Horrible Crime Brought to Light At Forman Last Sunday

MUTILATED BODY of FRANK CARR FOUND

Sherman Wells, Well Known to Many in Hankinson, to be Arrested.

One of the most horrible crimes ever committed in this section was brought to light at Forman last Sunday night by the finding of the mutilated body of Frank Carr under a manure pile. The face was so mutilated and the body so badly decomposed that identification was made possible only by means of letters on the body.

Carr, who was about 30 years old, disappeared from Forman about Nov. 20th, 1902, and as he had had some domestic troubles it was thought he had skipped out on that account and no search was made for him. He had lived there only a few months, being employed in a meat market conducted by his step-father, Isaac Dowling. His disappearance was the cause of some town gossip for a few days and was then forgotten.

Sunday night S. D. Covey was horrified to find part of a human body protruding from a manure heap at the rear of his barn located on the back of a lot opposite the Cong'l Church. Chickens scratching in the manure pile exposed part of the body to view. The coroner, Dr. McKenzie of Milnor, was at once notified and Monday morning a coroner's jury was empaneled and an inquest commenced. The jury has been working in secret, and finished their labors this morning at 10 AM, but the verdict will not be made public until Sherman Wells, now in Michigan with his mother, is placed under arrest.

Owing to the secrecy maintained by the jurors reliable information is hard to secure, but rumors more or less correct are as follows: On the night of his disappearance Carr was engaged in a poker game at which young Wells and a number of others were present. Carr had about $200 in cash on his person, which fact was known to all present. When he left the room he remarked that he must go and take care of his team, which was in the Covey barn. This was the last time Carr was seen alive. Shortly after Carr left young Wells arose and went out also. Carr's disappearance was noised about the following day, but no investigation was made for reasons above given. A day or two later Wells left for Michigan, but it was six weeks or more before he arrived there and meantime neither his mother or friends knew of his whereabouts. It is also known that he paid some bills around town before leaving, and appeared to be well supplied with money.

When found, the body was badly decomposed, having been in the manure heap since last fall. The skull had been crushed and the face beaten until the features were unrecognizable. Near the body was found a stove leg which fitted into the hole in the skull, and undoubtedly was the weapon used. A close search also revealed blood stains in the barn, showing that th-crime had been committed there and the body dragged to the side of the barn, the banking dug away and the body concealed partly under the sills of the structure and the manure thrown back on it.

As soon as suspicion pointed to Wells the Sheriff of the county in which he is known to be at present was notified to keep watch of him, and last night a telegram was sent to place him under arrest. He is probably in custody ere this.

Young Wells is known to many of the people of Hankinson, being a younger brother of the unfortunate lineman who was killed at Forman last winter by falling under a freight train. He assisted the latter in the work of putting in the local exchange here and also in repair work in this vicinity. He is about 23 years old and has lived at Forman since infancy. His mother is a bed-ridden invalid and the shock of the terrible accusation of her boy can be imagined, following so closely on the tragic death of her older son.

Many think that one or two others are implicated in the affair and it is hoped to bring all the guilty parties to justice. Wells' friends admit that there is a strong circumstantial case against him but claim that a full knowledge of the facts, if they can be secured, will involve others more deeply than he. They think that his boyish years preclude the possibility of his having deliberately planned and committed a crime so diabolical.

District court for Sargent County convenes on May 19th, but as a rule no jury is drawn for the spring term. However, in view of the importance of this case a jury may be drawn rather than allow the matter to drag until next November when the fall term convenes.

A very sad affair was the death of little Orr Russell, the 19 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Russell, which occurred last Thursday night. The little one was the idol of his parents and the pet of the neighborhood and his unexpected death cast a gloom over the entire community. The children had just undergone a siege of measles and were thought to be recovering nicely, so much so that Mr. Russell left the previous day for Edmonton, Alberta. Complications arose that baffled medical skill, and the baby passed away at 10 o'clock. Mr. Russell was unable to reach home until Tuesday morning, and funeral services were held the same afternoon, Rev. Walton of Wahpeton officiating. The remains were taken to Wahpeton for interment.

On Tuesday morning of last week a most heartrending accident happened at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Arnold living two miles east of here, near Sonora. Mrs. Arnold was washing clothes and had her 20 months old baby boy sitting in a high chair near the machine where she could look after him. She emptied a boiler of hot water into the machine and while returning to the stove with the boiler the little fellow got over balanced in the chair and fell into the machine, scalding his left side from the hip to the head, the flesh being literally cooked. The little sufferer lingered until about 4 AM the following morning when death ensued. The mother is almost heart broken over the accident.

The funeral services were held in the M. E. Church of Fairmount last Thursday and the remains were laid to rest in the Fairmount Cemetery. The bereaved parents have the deepest sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

SMOTHERED TO DEATH

Intoxicated Farmer Falls Helpless on His Face and Is Dead When Found

MIKE KINNEY, JR., NORTH of SANDOUN

Drank Alcohol With Some Jew Peddlers....Leaves Wife and Two Children

Mike Kinney, Jr., a well known farmer near Sandoun, was found dead last Friday evening at 7 PM, having fallen on his face while intoxicated, and smothered to death.

Kinney was at the farm of a neighbor known as "Pegleg" Nelson, and they had been trading with a couple of Jew peddlers. When the trafficking was concluded a jug of alcohol and water was produced of which Kinney and Nelson partook freely. Kinney became utterly helpless from the effects of the concoction, and in attempting to step over a wagon tongue tripped and fell, face downward, his body lying across the tongue. The Jews had left and Nelson was too badly intoxicated to notice Kinney's predicament, and when found a short time afterwards the unfortunate man was lifeless, having smothered with his face buried in the soft earth and rubbish. Nelson was found lying in a barn near by, and when sobered up related what had happened.

Coroner Kaufman was notified and an inquest was held Saturday, the jurors being August Boettcher, C. Hoffman and John Stanton. An analysis of the liquor found in the jug showed nothing worse than alcohol, and the verdict placed the blame for Kinney's death to his own negligence.

The deceased is a well known farmer and last fall disposed of his land and took up a homestead in Canada, and expected to leave this month with his wife and two children to settle on it. He was a member of the Yeoman and carried insurance in that order.

Well Known Farmer Near Great Bend Meets With Probable Fatal Accident
DRAGGED UNDER A RIDING CULTIVATOR

Chris Krieger, One of the Pioneer Settlers, Whose Brothers Live Near Hankinson...

Chris Drieger, a well known farmer living four miles east of Great Bend, met with what will probably prove a fatal accident last Saturday evening. He was returning alone from Great Bend with a riding cultivator tied behind the wagon. It would seem that the cultivator had broken its fastenings and Krieger got off the wagon to tie it on again, the horses start to run and the unfortunate man was caught under the spades of the cultivator. He was dragged some distance and sustained injuries which are very likely to prove fatal. The spades caught in his back, lacerating the flesh in a frightful manner, and the back of his head was also badly bruised. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to his home half a mile distant, doctors were summoned and every effort made to restore him to consciousness but without effect. His body is paralyzed and there is very little hope of his recovery.

WELLS GOT OFF EASY

Murderer of Carr at Forman is Convicted of Murder in Second Degree

JURY FIXES PENALTY AT FIFTEEN YEARS.

Prisoner is at Once Taken to Bismarck to Begin Serving His Sentence

After being out four hours the jury in the case of Sherman K. Wells, on trial at Ellendale for the murder of Frank Carr at Forman last November, returned a verdict of murder in the second degree, and fixed the penalty at imprisonment in the penitentiary for fifteen years.

The verdict was a surprise to the public generally as it was thought that if Wells escaped the gallows he would be lucky.

Ten members of the jury are said to have voted for murder in the first degree with life imprisonment as the penalty. One voted for murder in the second degree with penalty at ten years, while the twelfth man wanted to give him only manslaughter in the second degree with five years imprisonment.

The verdict is very unsatisfactory to the people of Forman, who give little credence to the story that Sherman's older brother John had anything to do with the killing.

The light sentence was really better than Wells and his friends had hoped for and no effort will be made to secure a new trial or to appeal the case. Immediately after the sentence was pronounced Wells started for Bismarck accompanied by the sheriff and two stalwart deputies, to one of whom he was handcuffed. His mother and aunt, who were in Ellendale during the trial, have gone to California where the latter is a practicing physician in San Francisco.

The Sargent County Commissioners are in session at Forman this week, and the expenses they are called upon to pay in the matter of the trial will amount to nearly $10,000. Attorney Nye's bill alone is $1900.

Some of the people of Forman profess to think that the murder of Carr is not the only crime that can be charged to Sherman Wells, who is now serving a fifteen year sentence at Biemarck. A gentleman from that place in conversation with The NEWS this week stated while Wells was in Michigan last winter an uncle of his disappeared mysteriously and has not since been heard of. He had just sold a farm and was supposed to have gone to California to resid but never arrived there. He had quite a large sum of money on his person and was last seen in the company of Wells. Another case is that of a hobo whose body was found in a manure heap near Britton, SD., and whose death was never accounted for, though it is claimed that Wells was in that vicinity about the time the man disappeared. There is still another case of a laboring man at Forman who disappeared leaving quite a sum of uncollected wages. The deceased was of French-Indian descent and lived for many years on the banks of Moran Lake in Moran Township. His former home on the lake, now occupied by A. W. Thomas, was a well known stopping place for travelers from Breckenridge to Fort Sisseton in the early days and the old time trail made by the freight teams of that day can be seen yet in the vicinity of the lake. A sad double affliction befell the family of Herman Brummund on Thursday of last week in the death of their two eldest sons, Otto and William, on the same day. The young men had been very low for some weeks, being sufferers from consumption, and the death of the younger son (Otto) at his home at 7 AM Thursday morning was chronicled in last week's NEWS. The other son was at the hospital for treatment and passed away at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The first named was 21, and the other 24 years old. They were both born in Germany and came to this country with their parents about twenty years ago. They grew to manhood here and were highly esteemed by a large circle of acquaintances.

The funeral on Sunday was perhaps the most largely attended of any ever held in Hankinson. Services were conducted at the German Evangelical Church, Rev. Fred Wolters conducting the services, and the capacity of the building was taxed to its utmost, so large was the attendance of sorrowing friends. William Reimer returned the first of the week from Bemidji, MN., where he was called by a message announcing the death of his son-in-law, August Zacharias, formerly of this place. He arrived there the middle of last week only to find that the supposed dead man had revived and was in a fair way to recovery. It seems Zacharias was loading ice when a chunk of the congealed aqua fell on him, causing injuries of so serious a nature that the doctors pronounced him dead. In a few hours he showed signs of returning to life, however, and was finally restored to consciousness, though the injuries sustained will lay him up for some time.

ANOTHER SARGENT COUNTY MURDER

What may prove a murder occurred on the farm of F. M. Coleman in Vivian Township, Sargent County, Sunday morning. An altercation between two threshing hands was ended by Hayes Lewis drawing a revolver and shooting Charles Christman through the right breast.

The wounded man dropped instantly and while he is yet alive, is in a sinking condition and it is doubtful if he retains life more than twenty-four hours. Lewis, after firing the shot, decamped, accompanied by a brother. They are both armed with revolvers. Members of the threshing crew are following them in order to aid in their capture.

The sheriffs of Sargent and Dickey Counties were promptly notified, and have organized posses to run the Lewis brothers down. The shooting took place in Sargent County, and a warrant of arrest was issued by Justice Forman, in the absence of State's Attorney Bishop.

Deputy Sheriff William Cassin, Joseph Slattery and Samuel Sweetman of Forman, compose one of the posses. They are armed with Winchesters and as the Lewis brothers are said to be Kentuckians and handy with their weapons, it is expected that a battle will take place in the hills of northern Sargent or Dickey County before they are overcome.

LATER....A Forman special says:

The shooting of Charles Christman by Hayes Lewis at the Coleman farm is the theme of interest here. Christman died last night and his body is at Oakes. He was a native of Idaho, and about 26 years old. Lewis was captured in a big swamp near the edge of Sargent County by the posse from Oakes. This posse turned him over to Deputy Sheriff Cassin of Sargent County who brought him to Forman and lodged him in the county jail.

The brother of Lewis, who started to accompany him from the scene of the shooting, has not yet been apprehended, but as he took no part in the shooting, no search has been made for him. Hayes Lewis asserted he was on his way to Oakes to give himself up, and that he had hidden in the swamp to escape being killed by the threshing crew, which witnessed the shooting, and started in pursuit of him. He says he sent his brother on to Oakes to secure protection for them both, but that the brother probably saw the Oakes posse on the way, and being frightened hid from them.

The members of the crew are all of the hobo class, and are inclined to side against Lewis. Lewis and his brother, on the contrary, are fairly well educated young men, wear good clothes, and Hayes, who was formerly a school teacher, has a sum of money on deposit in an Oakes bank. He is about 26 years old. He says he shot Christman in self-defense, that the latter was attacking him with a club. The threshers say Christman had only a lath in his hand.

The trouble is said to have started over a young woman who was employed at the farm. It appears that Lewis had written her a love letter, which she indiscreetly showed Christman, who in turn revealed the contents to the threshing crew, with the result that the latter "guyed" Lewis unmercifully.

The preliminary hearing will take place tomorrow, unless the defendant waives examination. District court meets in November.

Peter Bernard died at the hospital last Thursday evening of diabetes. Deceased had been sinking for several days and his death was not a surprise. He leaves a wife and large family to mourn his loss. Four brothers also survive him.

October 1, 1903

The preliminary hearing of H. Lewis, who shot Charles Christman Sunday in western Sargent County, has been adjourned until Oct. 6th. Lewis' strongest witness is his brother who has just returned. They both tell a straightforward story to the effect that the shooting was in self defense, and if advices from their home at Libertyville, KY., prove previous good character, it is not unlikely that Hayes will be acquitted of murdering Christman.

* * * * *

October 1, 1903

Lewis Hayes was discharged by Justice Forman at Forman yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of his preliminary hearing on a charge of murder. The killing occurred a week ago last Sunday and was the result of a murderous attack made by Charles Christman on Hayes. Both men were threshers. Alfred Hayes had been struck three times on the head with a heavy club he pulled a gun and shot his assailant. The pal of the dead man, while on the stand yesterday, said Hayes was fully justified in shooting Christman, and others who witnessed the row say the shooting was done in self defense. It was simply a case in which a bulldozing rowdy picked trouble with a smaller man and got his just deserts.

Just before The NEWS went to press last week news was received of a murder committed near Sisseton, and the following special under date of Oct. 8th gives the details: "Frank Goodboy, a Sisseton agency Indian, is under arrest here on a charge of killing James Whalen, a laborer, who has been employed hereabouts for the past year. Goodboy admits shooting Whalen, but claims he had to do so to save his son from terrible punishment and perhaps death at the hands of Whalen, who, according to Goodboy, was intoxicated and was beating the young fellow. Goodboy says that he, with his son, started off with Whalen to the Sisseton Agency and that Whalen had three bottles of whisky, of which they all drank very freely. Whalen became very drunk and threw the son out of the boggy. Then, jumping out of the rig, he started beating him. The youth called to his father for help and Goodboy hastily grabbed a shotgun and killed Whalen.

A distressing accident happened on the Neuman farm near Great Bend which resulted in the death of the little three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller Tuesday forenoon. Mr. Miller had soaked a quantity of corn in arsenic with which to poison gophers. A few grains were left in an out building and the little boy found these and ate them.

He was taken violently ill and Dr. Durkee was summoned, doing everything possible to counteract the effect of the deadly drug. All efforts were vain, and the child died after lingering for about 24 hours. The parents are almost crazed over the sad affair. The body was brought to Hankinson yesterday and shipped to the old home in Wisconsin for burial.

Assassin Still at Large and Headed This Way

+ + + + + + + + +

Sheriff Moody was shot and fatally wounded by an insane man at the Peter Ruddy farm, 4 miles west of Wahpeton, at 3:15 Saturday afternoon. The crazed murderer escaped with a rig and headed toward Hankinson, heavily armed.

The Sheriff was summoned to the Ruddy farm Saturday afternoon to care for a crazy man, a stranger. When Moody approached, the man drew a shotgun and fired a load of buckshot into the officer's body at close range. Holding off the farm hands and sheriff's driver with his weapon, he made his escape in a top buggy driven by two bay horses, disappearing towards Hankinson.

He is described as short and heavy set, skin darkened by exposure to wind and with a several days' growth of beard. He retained the shotgun and had plenty of ammunition. It is feared further bloodshed will occur before he is captured.

* * * * *

STORY OF THE SHOOTING

The man recently appeared from no one knows where and took possession of a vacant house on James Shea's farm. He acted in an insane manner and neighbors feared him. Stebbins and others living near tried to drive him out and finally went to Wahpeton and had a warrant issued for his arrest. Sheriff Moody and his helper drove to the place to place the man under arrest. The sheriff mounted the steps and standing on the porch called on the man to come out and surrender himself. The reply came from both barrels of a shotgun, the double charge taking effect in Moody's right breast.

The driver of the sheriff's rig rushed to the wounded man's side and carried him inside the house. Meantime the assassin made his escape. There was no one near the place at the time of the tragedy except the assassin, the sheriff and the driver. After carrying the mortally wounded officer into the house the driver hastened to the nearest neighbor's and sent help to the Shea building. He then phoned to Wahpeton for a doctor and drove back to Wahpeton.

BULLETIN

At 5 PM Deputy Sheriff August Bohn phoned to Hankinson that the murderer had passed three miles west of Great Bend and had cut the telephone wires behind him.

The man is evidently well acquainted with the country and is thought to be headed for the hills across the line in South Dakota.

Dozens of men are on the lookout for the assassin, including a dozen or more from Hankinson. All are heavily armed.

Unless captured at once, it is thought the man will pass between Lidgerwood and Hankinson tonight.
